

Joe Shames is an American combat veteran special operations pilot who served in Afghanistan, the Middle East, and East Africa. Joe is an entrepreneur, investor, and General Partner at Flintlock Capital. A lifelong entrepreneur, Joe started his first business when he was 15 years old. He's led companies through all phases of the business growth cycle, even a complete corporate turnaround and restructuring. As the Co-Founder and owner of Flags of Valor, he took the reins as CEO and led the veteran powered manufacturing company through the difficult trials of the COVID-19 pandemic. Joe is the Vice Chairman of the US Chamber of Commerce Small Business Council and a frequent speaker & writer on veteran entrepreneurship and small business policy issues. Most notably, he's been asked to speak from the White House and testify before the US Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship.